News Release

Konica Minolta Given the Highest Evaluation by CDP and Included on the Climate A List 2025

Tokyo (December 23, 2025) – Konica Minolta, Inc. (Konica Minolta) has been selected for the Climate A List in the FY2025 survey by CDP, an international not-for-profit environmental organization. This is the ninth time for Konica Minolta to be given the highest evaluation.

CDP operates a global system for disclosing environmental information of companies and local governments. In FY2025, over 24,800 companies around the world whose total assets are equivalent to two thirds of the global market capitalization disclosed environmental information through CDP at the request of more than 640 financial institutions whose combined assets are worth over 127 trillion U.S. dollars. CDP also holds the largest environmental database in the world aligned with the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD). The database is widely used when making decisions on investment and procurement.

The Climate A List

The Climate A List is composed of companies that have been recognized as global leaders in terms of goals set and actions taken to combat climate change and disclosure of information.

Aiming to Realize Net Zero CO<sub>2</sub> Emissions by 2050

Through its business, Konica Minolta aims to achieve net zero CO<sub>2</sub> emissions (Scope 1, 2, and 3) over the product lifecycle by 2050, while tackling five material issues, including “Addressing climate change” and “Using limited resources effectively.”

The Company is strengthening its core technologies as an “evolved core technology group” through the use of AI and the integration of technologies across business areas. In this effort, Konica Minolta will increase the contribution toward reducing energy use and CO<sub>2</sub> emissions through workflow and supply chain reforms.

Konica Minolta remains committed to helping build a decarbonized society while achieving both business creation and growth.
